

We are looking for sharp, established bloggers to join the CPHmade blog-team.

The online platform of CPHmade is undergoing a positive development on both traffic and interest.

The CPHmade blog and its posts are a very important asset to the CPHmade project, and as we are expanding the CPHmade-network, we are now looking for established bloggers who want to broaden their perspective on Copenhagen. CPHmade currently consists of 75 unique companies from Copenhagen, and we would very much like to introduce you to them giving you a broad selection of possible blog stories for your own blog.

We expect that you have a relation to Copenhagen, but you don't necessarily need to be living in Copenhagen.

We imagine that your established blog centres on subjects like:

Design
Fashion
Food
Politics
Copenhagen

What can we offer you?

- Increased traffic on your blog
- A wide selection of inspiring people you could feature on your blog
- A discount programme on products from the CPHmade Webshop.

If you find this interesting, don't hesitate to drop us a line or two about yourself, and attach examples of blog posts you've made.

Send your examples to ak@cphmade.org, and we'll get back to you as soon as possible.

We're looking forward to hearing from you!
